Deconstructed DBQ Assignment Sheet and Document Set

HANDOUT SET

Instructions

Read and analyze each document in the set. Use the vocabulary to support your understanding and/or take notes on a piece of paper as you read. Then, use the graphic organizer to plan your response to the question. The graphic organizer has more information and support to understand the task.

In your response you should:

- Use relevant evidence from the documents to support your thesis and line of reasoning.
- Respond to the prompt with a defensible thesis that establishes a line of reasoning.
- Analyze the sources (documents) using the VIEW technique.
- Group the sources (documents) based on similarities or connections.

DBQ Question:

How did the drive for territorial expansion shape the nation's identity and create new challenges for the United States?

Documents

Document A: Interview with Harriet Scott Palmer (1939)

On and on, we journeyed — averaging 15 miles a day over cactus, sagebrush, and hot sand. Everybody's shoes gave out, and we bartered with Indians for moccasins, but that didn't help much about the prickly pears. One by one, the oxen fell by the way. We came to Burnt River — a most desolate country. Here, sagebrush- dry, shrubby plants

bartered- traded goods without money

moccasins- shoes worn by Native Americans

our baby brother, Willie, fell sick. It was in the heat of August. The train was halted so that the darling child of four years could be better cared for, but he became unconscious and passed away.

prickly pears- a type of cactus fell by the way- died desolate- deserted, empty

Document B: American Progress by John Gast (1872)

<https://www.loc.gov/resource/cph.3b49232/>

In American Progress, painter John Gast portrays Manifest Destiny by showing Columbia, a symbol of the United States, floating westward with settlers, trains, and telegraph wires following her. As she moves into the dark frontier, Native Americans and wild animals flee.

Document C: Excerpt from the Gadsden Treaty (1853)

The Republic of Mexico and the United States of America desiring to remove every cause of disagreement which might interfere in any manner with the better friendship and intercourse between the two countries, and especially in respect to the true limits which should be established... In consideration of the foregoing stipulations, the Government of the United States agrees to pay to the government of Mexico... the sum of ten millions of dollars, of which seven millions shall be paid immediately upon the exchange of the ratifications of this treaty, and the remaining three millions as soon as the boundary line shall be surveyed, marked, and established...

intercourse-communication or dealings

foregoing stipulations-conditions or agreements already mentioned

ratifications- approvals

Document D: Excerpt from the Indian Removal Act (1830)

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That it shall and may be lawful for the President of the United States to cause so much of any territory belonging to the United States, west of the river Mississippi, not included in any state or organized territory, and to which the Indian title has been extinguished, as he may judge necessary, to be divided into a suitable number of districts, for the reception of such tribes or nations of Indians...	enacted- made law extinguished- ended, terminated

Document E: Handbill from the California Emigration Society, Boston (1856)

	Gold was discovered in California in 1848. Afterward, getting to California to strike it rich was a pull factor for many people. Once the gold miners arrived, others were needed to join to make cities. This handbill features information for people, including families, interested in moving west to California for reasons other than gold.

Document F: Excerpt from President James Polk's Message to Congress (1845)

...The terms of annexation which were offered by the United States having been accepted by Texas, the public faith of both parties is solemnly pledged to the compact of their union... This accession to our territory has been a bloodless achievement. No arm of force has been raised to produce the result. The sword has had no part in the victory. We have not sought to extend our territorial pos-sessions by conquest, or our republican institutions over a reluctant people. It was the deliberate homage of each people to the great principle of our federative union. If we consider the extent of territory involved in the annexation, its prospective influence on America, the means by which it has been accomplished, springing purely from the choice of the people themselves to share the blessings of our union, the history of the world may be challenged to furnish a parallel.

annexation- the taking of land where one party voluntarily gives it up public faith- promise or commitment

solemnly- in a formal manner

accession- to add

reluctant-hesitant

homage- acknowledge-ment

prospective- future effect

furnish a parallel- provide an equal

Document G: Alexis de Tocqueville, Democracy in American (1848)

“The state of Kentucky was founded in 1775, the state of Ohio only twelve years later...Today the population of Ohio already exceeds that of Kentucky by 250,000 inhabitants...

These diverse effects of slavery and freedom are easily understood....

On the left bank of the Ohio work is blended with the idea of slavery; on the right bank, inhabitants-people who live in an area

diverse- varied

When looking at the Ohio River from the East, Ohio is on the right bank and Kentucky is on the left.

with that of well-being and progress; there it is degraded, here they honor it; on the left bank of the river, one cannot find workers belonging to the white race; on the right bank one would seek in vain for an idle man....

The whites on the right bank, obliged to live by his own efforts, has placed in material well-being the principal goal of his existence....The American on the left bank scorns not only work, but all the undertakings that work makes successful; living in idle ease.”

degraded- lowered in value

idle- not working, without purpose

obliged- morally bound

principal- main or most important

scorns- to feel or express distaste
